

ABSTRACT

A virtual keyboard for typing the safety password, comprising the steps of displaying a multiple key keyboard; generating and assigning a predetermined number of characters to each one of the keys, such that the user selects a key which is associated with one of the predetermined number of characters; and displaying the predetermined number of characters in relative proximity to each one of the keys.